Subject: Arkema Facility Update

The EPA Aspect aircraft has completed its initial overflight of the Arkema facility in Crosby, TX. Although no vapors were detected migrating from the site and no thermal abnormalities were detected on the overflight, Arkema has estimated that the first trailer could reach auto ignition temperatures within the next 24 hours. Due to health and safety concerns Harris County Fire Department has adopted a defensive posture at the facility and is maintaining a 1.5 mile evacuation around the facility. Should a release/fire occur EPA will conduct another mission over the facility with Aspect.
